

NBCE Adds Student-focused Page to Web Site

Please notify your students that the NBCE has added a new feature to its Web site designed specifically for chiropractic college students: a microsite called Student Central. The microsite's goal is to supply fast facts to students about the NBCE examinations.

The idea for Student Central came from chiropractic college registrars. In a recent survey of college registrars, topics such as applying for NBCE examinations, determining eligibility, security screening, scoring, and test accommodations were cited as topics of most concern for students.

Student Central serves as a supplement to www.nbce.org and can be accessed from the NBCE home page. The NBCE Web site also offers complete descriptions of all examination-related material and has downloadable information brochures about the written and the Part IV examinations.

The NBCE plans to add additional features to Student Central as we gather more information about the most frequently viewed pages and issues of concern.
